

June 2023

Dear Friends and Supporters:

Established in 1958, the Atlanta Community Symphony Orchestra (ACSO) is metro Atlanta's oldest community orchestra and the only ensemble in the greater Atlanta region to offer concerts free of charge. As we enter our 66th consecutive season, the ACSO remains true to its core mission: "To make music for others and enrich their lives through education and community building."

We are looking for members of our community to support our initiative of musical engagement and education to the metro Atlanta community.

Last year, over a thousand playbills were distributed to our audiences. In the past, we have had enthusiastic participation from our advertising sponsors, and have been able to share their messages with a large portion of the greater Atlanta community. We encourage you to please consider purchasing an ad and assisting us with our musical performances and community outreach for the 2023-2024 66th concert season. The ACSO produces both print and digital full color playbills, which are distributed at every concert performance throughout the year.

The small cost of an ACSO program ad is easily offset if you gain a single new customer, and your business will gain goodwill from its support of the arts in Atlanta.
